PROFILE

Greg Antine joined King & Spalding's Tort Litigation and Environmental Practice Group in 2003. His practice focuses on electronic discovery issues, particularly with respect to the representation of consumer product, pharmaceutical, transportation, and energy clients. Mr. Antine is an attorney with the Discovery Center, King & Spalding's comprehensive solution providing cost-effective and centralized discovery services.

MATTERS

Representative experience includes:

- Supervising and managing over two hundred attorneys in multiple locations for a Federal Trade Commission Second Request in which over 1 million documents were reviewed and produced. This review was in connection with a corporate acquisition in which the documents were reviewed for responsiveness, privilege and significance. The document review project was completed in less than six weeks despite being one of the largest document productions ever made in response to an FTC Second Request.
- Supervising more than thirty attorneys in several locations in connection with a review of 600,000 electronic and paper documents for a leading transportation client. This review was for a breach of contract matter in which the documents were reviewed for responsiveness, privilege, significance, and confidentiality. The document review project was completed in less than nine weeks.
- Managing multiple corporate contract due diligence projects involving both acquisitions and sales of business units. Drafted summaries and created databases for corporate clients to help them manage extensive contract and client files.
- Managing fifteen attorneys in a review of 54,000 documents for a Fortune 50 pharmaceutical client. This review was done in response to a congressional inquiry in which the documents were reviewed for responsiveness, privilege, significance and confidentiality. The document review project was completed in three weeks.
- Managing fifteen attorneys in connection with a review of 75,000 documents for a Fortune 50 energy client. This review was in a royalty payments matter in which the documents were reviewed for responsiveness, privilege, significance and confidentiality. The document review project was completed in four weeks.
- Managing fifteen attorneys on a review of 150,000 documents for a Fortune 50 energy client. This review was done in connection with a product liability matter in which the documents were reviewed for responsiveness, privilege, significance and confidentiality.
- Drafting summaries and creating a searchable database of over one thousand contracts in connection with due diligence as part of a corporate reorganization.
- Assisted in preparing a privilege log of over 9,000 entries for a leading energy client defending product liability actions. This project was completed in three weeks.

Litigation Technology Experience

- Supervising and training attorney review teams and collecting, reviewing and producing documents. Due to Mr. Antine' involvement in these projects, he has experience coordinating and supervising the selection of vendors. He also has experience creating project plans and developing protocols for objective coding, imaging, scanning and printing. Mr. Antine has extensive knowledge and experience of document review and litigation support systems including Introspect, Stratify Legal Discovery, Clarvergence, MetaLincs, Concordance, CaseCentral, I-Connect, FileControl, Ernst & Young's Tree Review System and Microsoft Access.

- Mr. Antine received his J.D. from Tulane Law School, graduating, cum laude, in 2001. He graduated from the University of Virginia with a B.A. in both history and government in 1998. He is admitted to practice in Georgia. He is a member of the State Bar of Georgia.
