Helping Protect Client Interests Globally

Selected case studies:

TRADE REMEDIES

- Brought the largest-ever antidumping case against China and the first U.S. countervailing duty (anti-subsidy) petition against subsidized imports from China.

WORLD TRADE ORGANIZATION

- Advising governments and other interested parties in WTO dispute settlements and other WTO matters in industries ranging from aircraft to eCommerce.

SECTION 232 NATIONAL SECURITY TARIFFS ON STEEL AND ALUMINUM

- Leveraging trade remedy expertise to advocate for clients at the U.S. Department of Commerce regarding the additional steel and aluminum tariffs, which have been applied to imports from most countries since March 23, 2018.
- Strategically guiding clients to understand potential risks and opportunities that are posed by current tariff exemptions and product exclusions.

SECTION 301 INVESTIGATION REGARDING CHINA'S UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES

- Representing clients ranging from emerging companies to large multinational corporations regarding the proposed additional tariffs on Chinese-origin products, potential U.S. investment restrictions, and China's proposed retaliation.
- Develop creative "solutions" to addressing China's technology transfer, IP theft, and other Chinese acts, policies, and practices, including Made in China 2025.

Law 360 International Trade Practice Group of the Year (2017)

“Stephen J. Orava, head of the international trade practice at the law firm King & Spalding, said the Trump administration’s more protectionist stance is emboldening American companies to bring more trade cases. The administration has ‘dusted off all the tools’ to help firms build up their manufacturing, and ‘companies should be looking at ways to take advantage of that situation,’ Mr. Orava said.”
