Arbitration and dispute resolution agreements are designed to expedite the resolution of international disputes and eliminate the cost, delay, and uncertainty involved when complex cross-border disputes arise. Experienced corporate counsel understand that even a properly-drafted arbitration agreement or dispute resolution clause, while critical to effective dispute resolution and risk management, cannot prevent a counterparty from seeking to commence foreign court proceedings in derogation of an agreement to arbitrate, or to refuse to honor an arbitral award. Our Global Disputes practice understands these realities of modern international dispute resolution, and we have built a team capable of anticipating and addressing every eventuality that may arise when international arbitration agreements are not honored.

We understand that enforcement is a distinct discipline that requires expertise concerning a unique combination of state, federal, and international law, and our dedicated enforcement team is led by disputes partners in the United States and Europe who have extensive experience and are thought leaders in all aspects of international enforcement. Our seasoned team has acted as global lead counsel in landmark cases that have shaped international and national law on the recognition and enforcement of foreign arbitral awards and judgments, and have achieved high-profile victories against recalcitrant award and judgment debtors by using creative multi-jurisdictional strategies designed to utilize the most advantageous procedures and remedies to facilitate the collection of arbitral awards and foreign judgments in the quickest, most cost-effective manner possible. We make strategic use of forum-specific discovery and enforcement tools to gain an early advantage, sometimes even before an award is rendered, providing our clients with the critical leverage needed to lay the foundation for favorable settlement opportunities. Furthermore, members of our enforcement team work with our clients during contract negotiations to ensure that our clients understand, before a transaction is consummated, how disputes are likely to play out from beginning to end.

Finally, our unparalleled network of global relationships – King & Spalding has handled disputes in over 150 countries around the world – enables us to work seamlessly with trusted international partners to enforce awards and judgments wherever the best opportunities exist.

Winning an award is a big first step. But at the end of the day, recovery is what matters. King & Spalding knows how to finish the process.

“They are highly proficient and very reactive - among the very best in their class.”
