

State Attorneys General Practice

Proven Experience

King & Spalding has represented clients in State Attorneys General (“AG”) investigations and litigation in all 50 states and the District of Columbia for more than three decades, including multistate and parallel federal investigations and enforcement actions. We help clients avoid or minimize the impact of State AG investigations and litigation whenever possible, often engaging simultaneously on the policy and investigative fronts to advance and protect client interests. As deeply experienced trial counsel, we are also prepared to vigorously contest investigations, negotiate favorable resolutions and try cases when necessary.

We have decades of experience handling the full life-cycle of these matters: from the first informal inquiry or formal Civil Investigative Demand through an internal investigation, litigation or settlement, as well as guidance on proactive and remedial compliance measures every step of the way. Our team counsels on potential reputational damage, business disruption and policy solutions at the state and federal level and defends clients against complex litigation, qui tam actions and complex investigations of business practices. We serve as national or coordinating counsel in multistate, multiparty and independent parallel investigations. We are veterans of the crisis management and public messaging aspects of these matters, also skilled in handling discovery negotiations and battles that frequently accompany such investigations.
