Christopher Hyner is an associate with King & Spalding's International Trade practice in Washington, D.C. His practice concentrates on trade remedy proceedings, including antidumping and countervailing duty matters, international trade litigation, and regulatory compliance. Christopher represents clients in actions before the U.S. Department of Commerce, the U.S. International Trade Commission, the U.S. Court of International Trade, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, and in World Trade Organization dispute settlement proceedings.

Prior to joining King & Spalding, Christopher was a staff attorney at the U.S. Department of Commerce in the Office of Chief Counsel for Trade Enforcement & Compliance. He advised International Trade Administration officials on statutory and regulatory requirements, judicial precedent, and agency practice during the course of antidumping and countervailing duty proceedings and regulatory rulemaking processes. Additionally, he ensured defensibility of administrative determinations under U.S. law and international agreements.

Through his work for Commerce, Christopher gained substantial experience working on matters before the U.S. Court of International Trade, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit and the World Trade Organization's dispute settlement panels.
