David Wulfert is a partner in the Special Matters and Investigation Practice in King and Spalding's Washington, DC office. David's global dispute and regulatory advisory practice focuses on counseling clients in high stake matters involving internal and government investigations, complex white-collar criminal defense issues and commercial and investment arbitration proceedings. A native German speaker and dual-barred attorney in the US and Germany, David has vast experience in representing clients in multi-jurisdictional matters involving both U.S. and foreign authorities and regulators.

Admitted only in New York and Germany; practice directly supervised by principals of the firm.

David regularly advises multi-national companies and individuals on some of their most sensitive and significant matters, in particular in the automotive and financial sector. He is an expert in conducting cross-border and foreign investigations (often on the ground in Europe) and handling compliance building and crisis management for corporate clients. David's experience includes counseling both national and foreign companies subject to U.S. compliance monitors.

David has represented clients in proceedings involving a wide array of federal, state, and foreign authorities, such as the Justice Department (DOJ), the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the California Air Resources Board (CARB), the U.S. Senate, the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), the New York State Department of Financial Services (DFS), German Parliamentary Commissions, the German Automotive Regulatory Authority (KBA), the German Transport Ministry, German Prosecutors, the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority (FINMA), and the European Commission.
