Julia Zousmer, a litigator in King & Spalding's Chicago office, defends companies in complex product liability and mass tort litigation. Julia has a broad range of experience at every stage of the litigation process and has played an active role on several successful trial teams in high-stakes jury trials. She draws on her trial experience and creativity to distill complex scientific issues into simple narratives and defense themes that are compelling and easy to understand at trial and persuasive in motion practice.

Julia has been recognized as a Rising Star by Super Lawyers for seven years.

Julia is a member of the International Association of Defense Counsel (IADC) and a member of the Board of Friends of Prentice, the fundraising arm of Northwestern's Prentice Women's Hospital that raises money for women's health in all realms.
