Marie Hoolihan is an Associate in our Labor and Employment practice. Based in the London office, Marie advises UK-based and multinational companies on all aspects of employment law.

Marie advises clients on a broad range of contentious and non-contentious employment issues. She regularly advises on redundancy matters, disciplinary and grievance processes, senior executive employment contracts and exit negotiations. Marie frequently works closely with our corporate teams to advise on the employment law aspects of the sale and purchases of businesses. This often includes advising on employee transfers and co-ordinating cross-border employment projects.

Marie qualified as a Barrister and Solicitor in New Zealand in December 2014. Marie began her career in the employment law team at a leading commercial law firm in Auckland, before moving to the United Kingdom in 2017.
