Zoë Bromage is a senior associate in King & Spalding's Singapore office. Her practice focuses on international, cross-border transactions, project development and first of their kind projects in the energy sector, with a focus on oil, gas, LNG and power.

Representing clients on the full spectrum of the energy industry throughout Asia and globally, Zoë regularly advises on asset and corporate acquisitions and divestitures (including farm-in arrangements), LNG liquefaction and regasification projects (including floating LNG liquefaction, regasification and small-scale LNG projects), oil, gas and LNG sale and purchase agreements, marketing and trading of fuels, joint ventures and joint operating agreements, and supply and service agreements.

Prior to joining King & Spalding in February 2016, Zoë practiced with international law firms in Singapore, London and Aberdeen. She also has experience of working in-house, having spent 9 months at Premier Oil Plc's headquarters in London advising on matters involving Premier's operated and non-operated oil and gas assets.
